

Books For The Housekeepers; Special Home Economics Week At The Library

By MRS. JULIA A. SHARP

THIS is home economics week at the public library. The object of a week devoted to books on subjects relating to home economics is to suggest to the many housekeepers in the city that there are books at the library on every phase of home management.

Very often a book will suggest new ideas in performing the daily routine of household duties, or a more attractive way of preparing and serving a meal.

The books will be on display to July 26, and it is hoped by the librarians that the women of El Paso may find time to look them over and take home any that interests them.

The following is a selection of the books on home economics:

Domestic Economy. Allen, Table service.

Boston, Living on a little.

Brueer, Increasing home efficiency.

Child, The efficient kitchen.

Cray, 1000 shorter ways around the house.

Frederick, The new housekeeping.

A Good Breakfast Makes a Good Day

Most men are temperamental. If they start the day right they are French as a rule. If they start the day right they are French as a rule. If they start the day right they are French as a rule.

Even the most ordinary breakfast is voted "bully" when the housewife serves French Luxury Coffee.

It brushes away the cobwebs that sleep left in the eyes and opens the windows of the soul to the joy of living.

Is There A Scientist In Your Laundry

Do you work by "rule of thumb" while you labor with your family washing? Does your laundress still obey only her own whims, or does she wash your clothes in the way that trained investigators have found to be the best?

For there is an exact and haphazard method of washing.

In our laundry we leave nothing to chance. We retain a specialist on our staff. With his help we have made our methods, not approximately, but exactly right.

From him we have learned just how warm the water should be for the various varieties of fabrics. He has told us how much and what kind of soap to use, and why.

The use of ammonias and bleaches is still common with many housewives and laundresses. Science has taught us how to do without them.

Instead of the old time "hit-or-miss" methods of the laundress, we wash according to formula that many experiments have taught us to be best.

Dances.

The University club will entertain with a dancing party Friday night in its club rooms, in the Martin building. The officers and wives of the flying corps at Fort Bliss will be honor guests, and members of the club and their wives will be present. The patronesses will be Mrs. James J. Hornbrook, Mrs. Francis W. Glover and Mrs. John A. Wagner. Bert Beyerstedt's orchestra will furnish the music.

The dance at Khaki club No. 1, given Saturday night by the reorganized women's and girls' division of the War Camp Community Service was a success. The hall was decorated with vases of cut flowers and roses. The girls who served refreshments during the intermission were little green aprons and pink caps, carrying out the color scheme. The grand march was led by Gen. James H. Brown and Mrs. Hal Christie, followed by Lieut. Charles R. Gross, and Miss Helen Cooper Williams.

Mrs. Helen Cooper Williams sang a group of songs, accompanied by Kenneth McCollum, and Miss Blanch Cornwall danced, accompanied by the Munn orchestra.
